Intellectual property

Canonical's intellectual property rights policy governs your use of Canonical's intellectual property.

Copyright

The website HTML, text, images audio, video, software or other content that is made available on this website or otherwise hosted by Canonical are the property of someone - the author in the case of content produced elsewhere and reproduced here with permission, or Canonical or its content suppliers. Before you use this content in some way please take care to ensure that you have the relevant rights and permissions from the copyright holder.

You are welcome to display on your computer, download and print pages from this website for personal, education and non-commercial use only. You must retain copyright, trademark and other notices unaltered on any copies or printouts you make. Certain materials available on this site are "open source" materials subject to the GNU General Public Licence ("GPL") or other open-source licence and are so marked. Use of those materials is governed by the individual applicable licence.

Use of Ubuntu software

Your use of any software obtained from this site is subject to the terms of any licence or agreement provided with the software. Some of these agreements incorporate the terms of the GPL or other open source licences. Please read these licences and agreements before installing and using the software; by installing and using the software, you will have accepted the terms of the licences and agreements.

Trademarks

Any trademarks, logos and service marks displayed on this website are the property of their owners, whether Canonical or third parties. For example, Linux is a registered trademark of Linus Torvalds. Debian is a trademark of Software in the Public Interest, Inc. Windows is a trademark of Microsoft Corporation.

Canonical owns a number of trademarks, including UBUNTU, KUBUNTU, EDUBUNTU, and XUBUNTU, and use of these is subject to compliance with Canonical's intellectual property rights' policy.

Privacy policy

Our collection and use of your personal information is governed by the Canonical website privacy policy.

Links and third-party content

This and any other websites hosted by Canonical may contain links to other websites and resources and third party content, for example, message board posts or blog comments. Canonical is not responsible for such content, or that of any linked websites. You will not remove or alter any third party's copyright or trademark notices or other identifier, except as allowed by the third-party's licence of that content. Should you reasonably believe that any third-party content you access through our websites is in breach of any law, regulation or third party's rights, you should notify Canonical in writing at the address below. In doing so, please:

- identify the material which you believe to be infringing;
- identify what you believe this material infringes and why;
- provide your name, email address, address and telephone number;
- confirm that you believe in good faith that this material is infringing a law or third party's rights and that, to the best of your knowledge, the information you are providing is correct;
- identify if you are acting on behalf of the third party whose rights may have been infringed;
- provide your physical or electronic signature.
